

Hope for the Nations (HOPE) is committed to protecting all personal information that we collect from adherents, donors, volunteers, employees or directors and any other persons about or from whom HOPE collects personal information.

HOPE collects information solely for specified purposes and in compliance with both the Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act (PIPEDA) and the Privacy Act (Canada) all information is secured while under our control.

All personal information is maintained within HOPE and accessed confidentially by HOPE staff only when necessary and is limited to internal purposes.

We may require personal and/or financial information from you to:

- Facilitate donation transactions
- Provide updates on specified projects or sponsored children
- Facilitate volunteer application forms and/or travel details
- Provide tax receipting
- Fulfill donor management services

Except for the above implied consent to collect, use and retain personal information, no personal information will be sold, rented, leased or otherwise made available to any person without the explicit consent of the adherents, donors, volunteers, employees or directors. Everyone has the right to withdraw his or her implied or explicit consent for the use of his or her personal information for any or all previously authorized uses.

HOPE ensures the security of all information collected. We have established proper security protocol in order to secure and safeguard the information that we collect through our office and our website.

PRIVACY PRACTICES:

- All information gathered follows industry standard best practices and is confidentially held by HOPE.
- Information is used for specific purposes or as deemed necessary by HOPE.
- In order to facilitate tax receipting, donor information is released to the Canada revenue Agency (CRA).

- HOPE collects all personal information voluntarily and by providing such information to us you authorize HOPE to contact you and/or utilize your information unless otherwise specified.
